MOVES TO LANCASTER.

Dr. M. S. Hatfield, who has been associated with his brother, Dr. A. A.
Hatfield, in the dental profession in this city, has decided to locate in Lancaster. He has rented rooms over the Garrard Bank & Trust Co., and a residence from Mr. J. W. Elmore, and will move to Lancaster in the next few days.
Dr. Hatfield has made a number of good friends in Danville. He is a good dentist and his work has proven satisfactory in every way. Dr. A. A.
Hatfield, who has been practicing in Danville for about five years, will continue his practice at his present stand, Danville Messenger.

INFORM THE EDITOR!

One of the most difficult of the editor's jobs is to get facts about births, marriages and deaths. People seem to think he ought to know these things by intuition. If not that, the birth, marriage or death is of such importance in the immediate family that it is presumed that the editor will be informed by some such wireless or just grow into the information. Then, when the paper comes out and no mention is made of the event, the editor is blamed for not running a good newspaper or not getting all the news. Remember there are a good many people in this county.
If the editor knew each of them by name, besides their family history and the chief events in the lives of every individual, he wouldn't be an editor.
He'd be a demi-god, resting his feet on a cloud and sipping ambrosia instead of inhaling an office chair and wondering where the money for the next white paper bill is coming from. We're anxious for news for the paper, and it won't put you out much to drop by the office and notify us or telephone us what's happening at your house.

TELEPHONE EXCHANGE

Moves To Its New Quarters.

The Hastin Telephone Company has recently moved into its new quarters next door to the Central Record building and now have one of the most up-to-date offices in the state. A new switch board has been installed and with an entire new metallic system, the service that Mr. Cornn, the popular manager, is giving us now is about all that the public should desire. The management has been to an immense expense to install the present system and the public is to be congratulated upon the enterprise this company in putting forth to make the Lancaster exchange one of the best ever.
The Record office is now at work on a new directory with about four hundred names and some well displayed advertisements of the enterprising merchants of the city. This new directory will be out about the first of the month.

MAYOR DAVIDSON RESIGNS. Hands In Resignation At Council Meeting Last Monday Night.

No little surprise and regret was created at the meeting of the city council last Monday night when Mayor Davidson handed in his resignation to be accepted at once. Without exception Mr. Davidson has made one of the best Mayors the city of Lancaster has ever had and his friends regret that he left that such a step had to be taken.
He stated that his main reason for resigning was that much of the duties of the Police Judge was devolving upon him and the result was that it was materially interfering with his private business. It is to be hoped that things may be adjusted so that these important duties may be lifted from the shoulders of the Mayor and in such case, there is a possibility that he may be re-elected tonight at the adjourned meeting of the council. The city can ill afford to lose so valuable a man as Mr. Davidson at its head and the Record hopes that adjustments can be made and Mr. Davidson re-elected tonight.

THE PEOPLE DEMAND A GOOD ROAD SUPERVISOR.

GARRARD ROADS NEED INTELLIGENT THOUGHT AND WORK.

The position of Road Engineer in this county draws an annual salary of One Thousand Dollars ($1000.). The job comes by appointment and there are no incidental expenses, such as making a race for the ordinary office, to secure it. The pay equals to three and one third dollars per day for three hundred working days. If any one doubts that our turnpikes need the three hundred days service of a good energetic, practical business man, let him ride over the roads of the County. To those who are making constant complaint and who are every day reminded as they travel, that our turnpikes are turning to mud roads, let it be remembered that this condition is brought about by neglect and incompetent management since our turnpikes have been free, and the blame does not lie upon any single administration. But the present administration must meet the conditions at this time.
The failure of the past is just now being developed and Judge Arnold is perhaps getting far more criticism than he deserves. But there is a remedy and it is up to him to take advantage of it.
The mistakes of the past must be corrected. The road engineer that he is about to appoint should be a competent man and suitable for the position. If he fails in the selection he must bear the responsibility. It is his duty to the public to find and appoint a man who is not only competent, but who has the energy and determination to put the roads in condition. This can not be done by any man who expects to sit in an office in Lancaster and talk politics and discuss the issues of the day and draw his per diem. It will take some intelligent work on the part of the road engineer and his full time to make any showing.

From the complaint we have heard we do not believe the people of the county will longer tolerate the neglect in our road system and those who are now in charge would do well to understand the impatience along this line.
And Judge Arnold ought to have this in mind and what is expected of him when he names Mr. Bogie's successor.

To The Tobacco Growers of Garrard County.

We wish to thank you who sold with us this season, in fact all seasons that you have given us your business. The year in point of pounds has not exceeded a 50 per cent crop and it now seems that about all tobacco is in. Our prices have been excellent, for as against a price last year of less than 7c, we have average nearly $11.50. Our prices were high today for about 35,000 pounds which should average over $13.00. Those who have not sold with us we hope will by next season and from the present short crop, prices should be fine next year. Our business has always and will always be conducted absolutely on the square to all sellers, whether large or small. Our business has and will strictly be commission business. We have never at any time speculated in tobacco nor do we propose to. We have tried to state only facts in anything we have stated and what we said and have always said that the Madison had sold tobacco at just as good an average if not better than any house in the country, it was true for this it has always done. We again thank you and urge you to bring in what tobacco you have left, just as soon as possible.

IF YOU HAVE CATARRH READ THIS

Breathe Hyomei Four Times a Day and Watch Results. Give Prompt Relief.

The pleasantest, most convenient and most scientific method for the treatment of catarrh is Hyomei. Simply put a few drops of Hyomei in the inhaler that comes with every complete package and then breathe its air for a few minutes four times a day.

It seems remarkable that so simple a way of treating catarrh will effect such quick relief, but the most important discoveries of science have always been the simplest. By breathing Hyomei in this way every particle of air that enters the air passages of the throat and head and goes into the lungs is charged with a healing balsam that kills the germs and bacilli of catarrh and soothes and allays all irritation.

The first day's use of Hyomei will show an improvement and in a short time there should be no further trouble from catarrh. Its action is rapid and lasting.

You take no risk in buying Hyomei. A complete outfit is inexpensive but if after using you can say that it has not helped you R. E. McRoberts will return your money. What other treatment for catarrh is sold under a guarantee like this? 2-10-2t

The old crop of tobacco having been disposed of, a few of the farmers are making arrangements for another crop already. The acreage of tobacco will be considerably lessened this year on account of the hemp crops that will be raised by many of the farmers.

The Ladies Working Society at the last regular meeting decided to have a Bazaar sometime in the near future. Every member of the church is requested to contribute something to make it a success. The ex-members of society and church who now reside in Birmingham, Ala., Danville and Lexington, who will be sure to read this letter are requested to make a liberal contribution to the Bazaar.

At a recent meeting of the Ladies Working Society the President appointed as a committee Mrs. Edmond Sutton, Misses Eugenia Pollard and Susan Sutton to draft resolutions on the death of Miss Nettie Lee Kemper of which the following is offered:

The Ladies Working Society of the Forks Dix River church wishing to pay a last tribute to the memory of our dear sister, Nettie Lee Kemper, submit the following:

Whereas Our Heavenly Father has called from a life of suffering a much loved sister and co-worker of our Society

Resolved that we record upon our minutes our appreciation of her life and work among us. In years past she served faithfully as Secretary and was a zealous worker as long as health permitted and during her invalidism made inquiries as to the progress of the work.

Resolved that we have lost a warm hearted, Christian friend but that our loss is her gain for we know she has gone to "to be with Christ which is far better."

Resolved that we profoundly sympathize with the bereaved sister and aged mother, may they realize "that earth has no sorrow that Heaven cannot heal" that they have only given her up to be transferred to "The land that is fairer than day."

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be published in the Central Record and entered upon the Secretary's book of the Ladies Working Society.

We wish to submit the following tribute from a friend concerning the death of our oldest colored citizen; The death last week of "Uncle Jesse" Anderson, of color, aged 78, marked the passing of a figure long familiar to the community. He was of the ante-bellum type, polite of manner, sober, industrious and reliable. His politeness was unfailing and his simple piety and gentle manners made him a dependable and appreciated figure among his neighbors.

The period previous to the civil war has so far receded that we shall soon know nothing of the real affection that existed between master and slave. "Uncle Jesse" referred to his master and to "his white people" with esteem, declaring if he had had to return to bondage he would have chosen the same master.

CLOSING DAYS PROMISE RUSH

General Assembly Passed Few Bills—Session To Close in Three Weeks

STATE-WIDE DEFEATED

Woman Suffrage Is Placed on Calendar in House—Republicans Make Plans for State Convention March 1

Frankfort, Ky. (Special)—With the closing of the 1916 session of the Kentucky Legislature near at hand, there is much speculation as to what bills will be passed to remedy business conditions. It was expected that more would be accomplished in the early days of the present session, but a great deal of time was taken up over the Pike County division, prohibition and woman suffrage, neither of which have made any headway towards being enacted.

It appears that State-wide prohibition has been put to sleep for all this session, being defeated in both the House and the Senate.

The bill for the proposed Stanley county laid on the table in the Senate, is not expected to be brought up again.

Woman suffrage unfavorably reported in both the House and the Senate, but brought out in the lower body over the committee by a majority vote and placed on the calendar, appears to be certain of defeat.

The usual scramble at the eleventh hour is expected by those who have carefully watched the proceedings of this and many previous sessions of the Kentucky lawmakers.

Out of respect to the memory of Abraham Lincoln, both branches adjourned on Saturday, February 12th, his birthday.

The first thing Governor Stanley did after the State-wide prohibition amendment was defeated, was to call Attorney-General M. M. Logan, Auditor Robert L. Greene and Treasurer Sherman Goodpastor into conference, with a view to legislation which it is intended to liquidate the State debt of three million dollars.

The first thing to be done is to secure the passage of a bill under which provision may be made for decreasing the amount of interest now being paid by the State on its outstanding warrant.

A committee of the Kentucky Bankers' Association will assist in the preparation of this bill. Several of the leading bankers of the State have already consulted with Governor Stanley regarding the matter, and administration officials are optimistic concerning the likelihood of eliminating the debt. Leaders declare that the future of the Democratic party in Kentucky depends in a great measure upon it.

The Duncan administration bill to amend the text book adoption law to provide that not more than three subjects of study shall be changed at any one year was recommitted with leave to bring it forth at any time. This bill has passed the Senate and will be substituted for the House bill.

The solons are beginning to take stock now that the session of the General Assembly is more than half over. Every man who has a bill that he relies on to pass in order to square himself with his constituents is beginning to figure on how he can get it through the legislative maze that now confronts him.

There will likely be some fancy "jockeying" from now on, and all sorts of arguments will be brought to bear by the anxious solons to get their measures advanced before the time when they must trust to the tender mercies of the Rules Committee.

State-wide prohibition was defeated in the House of Representatives failing to receive the necessary three-fifths by six votes.

The vote stood 54 for submission and 40 against.

During the debate on this measure in the House trouble arose between Representative W. H. Harvey, of Dixon, Webster county, and Representative J. D. Humphrey, of Flemingsburg.

Speaking in support of the measure, Representative Harvey retracted a statement that a Democratic member who voted for the bill was a bolter. He referred to the Democratic convention at Louisville last year as not representing the real sentiment of the party. He criticized Governor Stanley harshly and accused him of deceiving the drys in certain localities as to his attitude on the state-wide question.

When Representative Humphrey gained the floor his speech precipitated trouble. He declared that he intended to vote for state-wide even though he knew it to be contrary to the platform, because he had promised his constituents to support it, but, he declared he could not remain silent when the Governor was being attacked.

He made charges that a chambermaid at a hotel in Frankfort had accused Representative Harvey of approaching her in his room with outstretched hands several weeks ago.

The accusation was investigated thoroughly by Police Judge W. C. Hendon and Police Officer H. L. Quinn at the time said that the statements made by the woman were not sufficient to issue a warrant.

Harvey branded the statements of Humphrey as a black falsehood deliberately and maliciously planned by a man against his enemy. He told that it was a frame-up by those opposed to state-wide prohibition.

The state-wide prohibition amendment is dead for the present session of the legislature, having been defeated by the Senate.

The Woman Suffrage constitutional amendment providing for the people to vote of the question of whether women shall vote or not was brought out of the hands of the Committee in the House of Representatives despite their unfavorable report, by a vote of 51 to 40.

The vote of the Committee stood 5 to 4 in favor of killing the bill, but Representative Hobbs, of Lexington, author of the bill, moved that notwithstanding the unfavorable report, the bill be given its first reading and placed in the calendar. He made a brief speech in favor of the bill and Representative Odie Duncan, of Henderson, spoke against it.

The galleries of the House were filled with women long before the time to vote on the motion and were jubilant at their success in having it placed in the calendar.

Without debate or roll call, the Prohibition program by President Wilson was endorsed by the Senate. The joint resolution was introduced by Senator Hoopes, of Spencer County.

The Impeachment Committee decided to make two reports to the House on the petition for the impeachment of J. E. Williams, Judge of McCrory County. The majority report, signed by the Democratic members will recommend the impeachment. The minority report, submitted by Representative White, of Marion County, the sole Republican member on the committee, will recommend the petition be dismissed.

The Stricklett-Pickett anti-pass bill, passed by both branches of the General Assembly, was the first signed by Governor Stanley and will become a law, January 1, 1917. It is the first of the Democratic platform measures to become a law.

The State Board of Equalization has been organized with W. M. Duncan, of Lawrenceburg, as chairman, and W. D. Mason, of Lancaster, Chief Clerk. The Assistant Clerks are E. P. Peterson, of Campbellsville and C. E. Mattingly, of Brandenburg.

Secretary of State Lewis has re-appointed Charles J. Howes, who has been acting as Assistant Secretary of State, to hold until March 15th, or until his successor is appointed and approved by the Governor.

The Court of Appeals, in an opinion by Judge Turner, upheld the position of State Auditor Greene and Attorney General Logan, refusing to allow the salaries of the portor and seven stenographers for the month of January in the office of V. O. Gilbert, State Superintendent of Public Schools.

The Court suggested that the General Assembly alone has power to appropriate public money to that purpose. Gilbert says that he will appeal to the legislature for help and a bill to that effect will be thrashed out.

Two bills designed to enforce the Sunday closing law in Kenton and Campbell Counties passed the House without serious opposition after much trouble was experienced in getting them placed on the calendar and through the necessary readings before a vote was taken.

The bills were introduced by Representative Greene, of Carrollton. The representatives from Kenton and Campbell Counties fought valiantly to defeat the measures.

The first measure is known as the "common nuisance injunction act." It provides any place where liquor is sold in violation of law shall be considered a common nuisance and provides for the abatement of such nuisances by injunction.

Upon the affidavits of three credible citizens of any community that such a nuisance exists, the Attorney General of Kentucky is required to institute an action to enjoin the nuisance perpetually.

The second bill passed is a "forfeiture act." This measure provides any saloon keeper who violates the law shall forfeit his license, and that no such saloon keeper shall ever be granted another license.

The most drastic feature of the bill is the section which gives jurisdiction in all cases under the act to the Franklin Circuit Court upon the affidavit of two credible witnesses that there has been a violation of the law. Either side may appeal to the Appellate Court.

The State Excise Commission bill, which has been proposed by the Governor as a substitute for the measure now introduced.

The "forfeiture act" has been reported unfavorable in the Senate.

How Two Old Bums Worked a Crowd.

By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1915, by McClure News-Paper Syndicate

Just after breakfast the other morning an old bum made his way from the street to an empty bench in one of the city parks. He wasn't a tramp. He wasn't a vag. He wasn't a hobo. There was no name to fit him except "bum."

Soon a younger bum came sneaking across the park and sat down on the other end of the bench. He also gazed into vacancy. He also heaved a deep sigh. They had not even looked at each other when the old bum mumbled:

"Did you get anything?"

"Not a red. I was giving the old gent a fine song and dance about my dying wife when a cop appeared and shook me till my teeth rattled."

"There's an old gent coming this way," said the big bum. He looks like an Uncle Rube winking out to see the sights of the city. Let's work the old gag on him."

Whereupon the big bum whirled half around so as to stretch out his back and lay his head in the lap of the younger one and close his eyes.

Yes, Uncle Rube had come to town the day before. He had put up at a hotel near the park and was out on an early hour to see if the town had grown any since his last visit of twenty years ago. As his walk brought him near the hump his curiosity was excited. Here was a case that demanded investigation, and Uncle Rube advanced and called out:

"Say, now, but what's the matter here?"

"Sick," was the answer.

"Sick, eh? What kind of sickness?"

"Weak heart. It allus goes back on him when he's been without food for three or four days."

"Good Lord! But you don't tell me that's the case now?"

"Damon, how long is it since you had a meal?" tenderly asked the little bum as he bent over the head on his knees.

"Mebbe a week," was the faint reply.

"I can't believe it," said Uncle Rube. "Nothing to eat for a week right here in this big town, where they throw away enough every day to feed a hundred hogs. What's his name?"

"His name is Damon and mine is Pythias. We are comrades. You've read about Damon and Pythias of old, haven't you?"

"I guess I have," replied Uncle Rube, with a doubtful look. "but I've forgotten. But what are we going to do about this case?"

"You are a good man," said Pythias, "but you have come too late. Damon, he has come too late, hasn't he?"

"I think he has, Pythias, but mebbe there is just one chance yet. If I could sit down to a full meal once more I think my life could be saved; otherwise there is no hope for me."

"Does he think that food will save him?" anxiously asked Uncle Rube.

At this moment half a dozen men crossing the park stopped to inquire what had happened, and Pythias answered their questions by saying:

"Poor Damon's heart has given out on him at last."

"Neighbors, the case is this," added Uncle Rube, with a flourish of his arm. "This here dying man has been without food in your midst for a full week while you have been trotting around with loaded stomachs."

More men came up until the crowd numbered thirty or forty. Most of them took a look at Damon, whose hands were clinched and eyeballs turned up, and then smiled at each other. It was an old gag, and many of them had seen it worked before.

Uncle Rube took a dollar bill from his pocket and dropped it in his hat and passed the hat around among the crowd, saying:

"If I ever met with a worthy cause, this is the one of all. I should be ashamed to go home and face Hannah if that man died on the bench with me looking on. You look like men with hearts. Come down!"

There wasn't a man in that crowd of fifty who didn't believe he was being gulled, but they were a good natured lot, and almost every one contributed from a dime to a quarter. The change was wrapped in the bill and the whole bundled over to Pythias, who said:

"Gentlemen, you have done a mercurial act, and I thank you, and Damon thanks you. And you thank these gentlemen, don't you, Damon?"

"I do."

"And you will never forget this noble-hearted old man who has spoken so well of us?"

"Never, Pythias, never!"

"And you have resolved to live on, Damon?"

"Do you hear that, gentlemen?" said Uncle Rube as a smile came to his face and the moisture to his eyes. "They are both going to live on and lead nobler and purer lives. I feel like giving three cheers!"

But before he could give them Pythias stood up and interrupted with:

"And it only remains, gentlemen—it only remains to—"

"Police, police!" yelled a small boy in rear of the crowd.

It only remained for Damon to roll off the bench and scramble to his feet, and in five minutes the pair were half a mile away. The crowd laughed and cheered good naturedly, although it had been "worked," and Uncle Rube took off his hat and scratched his head and exclaimed:

"By George, when I tell Hannah she won't believe it. I guess I've been kinder made a fool of!"

We are authorized to announce Miss

Jennie Higgins a candidate for County

School Superintendent of Garrard

County, subject to the action of the Democratic primary August 1917.

The bill in the General Assembly to submit to a vote State-wide Prohibition has been killed both in the Senate and in the House. The Democratic Administration, carrying out the pledge in the party platform, opposed the submission to a vote at this time. It matters not what opinion is held by any democrat upon this subject, no criticism can be justly made for the position taken by the Governor and his Administration. Governor Stanley, both before the primary and during the campaign preceding the November election declared upon every stump in Kentucky that he favored a further trial of the County-Unit law before the State-wide Amendment was enacted and he would have been acting in bad faith, both with his party and those who supported him upon this promise to have now advocated the submission of the State-wide amendment. A number of democratic members of both the House and Senate had pledged their constituents before the August Primary that they would favor the State-wide

Amendment, and this before the democratic platform was made and those members felt that their personal pledges were more binding than the party platform. Our Representative, Mr.

Clay Kauffman, has been voting with the Administration upon all other questions, except this, and now states that he had promised some of his constituents before the primary that he would vote in favor of a submission, if elected, and carried out his promise. The number of votes cast by democratic members for the amendment indicates the strong sentiment in the party favoring a vote on this question and believes the consequences what may to the organization it appears sure that the submission of the question is not far distant, and it is our personal opinion that it will be best for the party to let the matter be disposed of.

President Wilson and his Secretary of War, Mr. Garrison, were in full accord upon the plans to enlarge our army and make it more efficient. The disagreement between the two arose over the fact that the President was unwilling to undertake to force his personal views and those of his Secretary of War upon Congress. The impotence of Mr. Garrison with the views of Congress does not commend him as a man suited for the large responsibilities of the important station he held at this time, and there are few regrets that his resignation was promptly accepted by the President. There will soon be selected a man who will fill the position as well, if not better, than the retiring official. The country has little patience and thinks little of the patriotism of an officer who is so selfish in his opinion and who is not willing to concede something to his associates in the working out of the great problems, like the increase of our army and navy. It is indeed a satisfaction, that the great American public, without regard to party, is standing behind the President and have responded to his patriotic words and there is no further doubt that the army and navy will be rapidly increased, to that point which the liberties of the individual and the large property rights of this country can be protected and preserved against any attack that may be made against us. The blessing enjoyed by the American people have been purchased at too great a sacrifice to trust to the fairness and justice as interpreted by outside world. The occasional resigning of a member of the Cabinet in no wise retard the Pres-them to make him Judge Davidson. We hope that the unfortunate condition which compelled him to resign the office as mayor, may be adjusted and that he will continue upon reconsideration to give to the public his valuable service until his term shall expire January 1, 1918.

The Lincoln banquet held in Louisville last week by the Republicans was a real harmony meeting. The old warring factions laid aside their differences and gave the outward appearance that the party is again united. There was one significant thing to be observed from the reports of the meeting and that is that Edwin P. Morrow is no longer the recognized leader of the party. Judge Ed. C. O'Rear, nominee for Governor four years ago, was the hero of the occasion and it is very apparent that since the party has switched from the County Unit to State-wide Prohibition that Judge O'Rear is a dangerous rival of the late candidate for Governor. He has always been a State-wider and will doubtless be one of the foremost men in the councils of the party in the future.

The Harrodsburg Herald issue of February 11th, got the wrong row by the ear, when it gave us credit for an article we were not guilty of writing.

GOOD RECORD.

The term of the Mercer Circuit Court, just closed, cost the state less than any single term of court held here in half a century. Judge Hardin should be commended on the way he expeditious business. The petit jury served only six days and the cost of witnesses did not exceed ten dollars. This speaks well for local opinion.—Harrodsburg Herald.

WOMAN'S DREAM IS TRUE AT LAST
She Knows Why Multi-Millionaires Offer to Divide Fortunes.

To be a sufferer from nervous dyspepsia for ten years, and to hear all the tortures, mental and physical, that this all too common ailment brings, and then to find relief almost over night, is like having a happy dream come true.

But this was the delightful experience of Mrs. Margaret Hunter, of 40 Eighteenth street, Newport Ky. Mrs. Hunter, the wife of a well-known and highly successful real estate dealer in the Kentucky city, recently told of the long hoped for change in her life.

"For ten years," explained Mrs. Hunter, "I have suffered from nervous dyspepsia. When I read of the offers of multi-millionaires to divide their fortunes if they might be cured of this terribly distressful malady, I felt that in this way they most eloquently told of their sufferings and I felt, too, that I would never be cured, because I had no millions to offer.

"I used all manner of remedies without avail. Even the strictest dieting did not help me materially. Food in any form was absolutely repellant at most times. But worst of all, of course was the constant nerve strain. I had all of the symptoms that dyspepsia causes—headaches, backaches, and pains in the kidney regions, nausea, dizziness, sleeplessness, bad taste in my mouth, a coated tongue, forming of gas in my stomach and bloating, and I was in a generally run-down and thoroughly nervous condition.

"And then came the joyful surprise. After the first few doses of Tanlac I was benefited. Now I am back to a normal condition, nerve quieted, restful sleep, and my food digesting as it should, and, of course, I am gaining strength daily.

"My husband, who has seen the splendid effect of Tanlac on me, has also taken it."

Tanlac, that inspired this intensely interesting story, big in importance to men and women everywhere, now is being introduced in Lancaster at R. E. McRoberts where it is being fully explained.

Tanlac may be obtained in Bryansville at Becker & Ballard; Crab Orchard, Lyon Brown; Danville, John S. Wells, Paint Lick, J. M. Metcalf; Stanford, Penny's Drug Store.

FIRE ON CHUTE.

About nine o'clock last night fire destroyed two colored residences on Water St. at the entrance to the chute. The alarm was turned in immediately, but the department didn't arrive very readily and when it arrived on the scene, the "things-a-burners" that were recently purchased to protect the plug wouldn't work, and one house burned practically down before the water was turned on. At last after the water was turned on it was found that the hose was tied up and this retarded the work of the firehouse. Near was total a disaster. Some one is to blame for the hose being drained after the last fire and not re-filled and not re-filled. Total loss about $1000, with no insurance.

HELEN KELLER IS DELIGHTED TO BE IN KENTUCKY

Talks to Reporters of Stories by Kentucky

Writers She Has Enjoyed.

"It is such a joy to see you and know you, after hearing of you for so many years," said a reporter for the Evening Post this morning, slowly, to Helen Keller, in her room at the Seelbach Hotel, and as Miss Keller laid her white fingers lightly over the lips of the speaker, the words were slowly repeated with distinctness, and a smile of delight overspread the countenance of the blind and deaf girl, who is considered one of the marvels of the age.

Through the interpreter, Mrs. Macy, quite a conversation was conducted with Miss Keller.

"I have passed through Louisville before, but I never thought I would speak in this city," she said. "I have read so many stories by the Kentucky authors, John Fox and James Lane Allen."

"How about Mrs. Wiggs?" was asked. Miss Keller laughed outright, and clasped her hands together with an enthusiastic little motion and said, "O, yes, the lovely stories of Mrs. Rice, and then, too, I must not forget Aunt Jane, of Kentucky, by Mrs. Oberholser."

Mrs. Macy, the teacher and interpreter of Helen Keller, said that the tour outlined for Miss Keller and herself was most taxing, and covered engagements for every day up to May. It prevents their acceptance of many courtesies, which are proffered in every city they visit.

Miss Keller told the reporter in the interview that her mother had gone to school in Louisville, and asked eagerly if she knew of the "Woman's College," which she attended.

A characteristic feature of Miss Keller is the bright, attractive countenance which she possesses. Here is not a sad or in the slightest degree an inanimate face. She possesses considerable beauty, and her form is trim and graceful. Her voice is wonderful in its distinctness, considering that no sound may reach her.

CRUSHING OF KAISER'S NATION

Is Predicted By Kipling in Article On War

(By Rudyard Kipling.)

Paris, February 6.—We are passing through dark, damp days which are not good for the soul.

I have known black moments and doubtless shall know worse. The German in exploiting all the psychological factors he is capable of understanding and his press just now is engaged in confirming the world in the idea of a motionless and unbeatable Michael, straddled across Europe and disdainful of his little enemies.

But the idea is beginning to penetrate the Tueton's head that this is not a war of victories, but a war of extermination for his species. We in England are better informed on this point than we were a year ago.

When a whole nation goes into the trenches there can be no victories; there can only be killing, and at least three nations desire greedily that the Tueton be killed in retail, since he can not be killed in wholesale.

The Germans cannot withdraw from his present lines. He dares not because he would have to explain that action to his own people. He must use himself up gradually either by advancing and winning victories, or by staying where he is.

And when he is used up there will be very little of the German problem to settle. That is the end where the destinies are forcing, despite all the efforts we have made to avoid it.

The question of indemnity to Germany has disappeared by the force of facts. If she claims one it will be cheaper to continue killing. If she demands peace without indemnity, returning to the status quo, what guarantee will there be that as soon as civilization is disarmed she will not throw herself on us again? The moral law directing her life compels her to do so.

That is why her ships cannot be allowed to go to sea again. She cannot wage any more war than she is now waging, because she is engaged on all possible fronts. She can defend and consolidate her conquests, but what good is consolidation when she perpetually has to throw men into the fringe of fire burning all around her?

Allah has decreed that she shall perish by her own act, from the consequences of the law that she professes and through her own temperament. If the allies had won five or six months ago they would have left Germany still capable of regaining her lines.

No Germany will remain. This may sound extravagant, but all that will remain will be a few people living on the eternal defensive in moral, social and political trenches. Grant that everything in Germany favors a defensive impossible to break; an influx of food stuffs which cannot be stopped; people indefinitely enthusiastic for war. Even then we must hold on. France, who has paid the flesh of her flesh, England with her half million losses and about to pay more; Russia with her dead impossible to count.

All the rats are before us in the same ditch and as far as England and the empire are concerned, we can put as many men into the lines in France to hold the Teutons back as the French have.

WILL MAKE GOOD.

Mr. D. F. Sebastian, who has many relatives and friends in the county has entered the mid-winter term of Georgetown college and will continue his ministerial work in this splendid school. Mr. Sebastian is a bright and worthy young man and we predict for him an honorable future.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

Fannie Marel Scott.

Who departed this life, Feb. 11, 1911.

Oh, kind and dearest mother,

Since you have passed away,

It seems not two years ago,

But only yesterday.

Though earthly ties are broken,

In life we'll meet no more,

Our thoughts are with you dear mother

On yonder distant shore.

The God who gave his taken,

The Heaven our mother has won;

Although our hearts are filled with sadness,

The will of God is done.

From her loving husband and children.

WHY YOU SHOULD SELL IN LEXINGTON

BECAUSE it is the biggest market in the world.

BECAUSE all large manufacturers have their redrying plants here.

BECAUSE all smaller manufacturers buy through brokers on this market.

BECAUSE we have thirty nine licensed buyers on the Lexington market.

BECAUSE the Lexington market has averaged for the past five years $1.50 to $3.00 per hundred above the entire average of the state.

BECAUSE it takes you 12 months of hard work to raise a crop; why not take a day or two longer and sell it on the BIGGEST AND BEST

MARKET IN THE WORLD!

Don't take anybody's word for it, come and see for yourself and be convinced.

WE HAVE A SALE DAILY IN ONE OR MORE OF OUR HOUSES.

As to the prices we are getting and the way we look after your tobacco, ask any one who has sold with us. We will stand by anything they say about us and submit your trade on that basis.

We have in our market report for several weeks past reported a strong and active market with a decided advance for common red grades. This week the market has remained firm with values on a par with last week. There was some discrimination, however, against tobacco of too high order which had a tendency to give the market the appearance of not being quite so strong.

22,547,200 Pounds Have Been Sold up to Date

AT AN AVERAGE OF $10.63.

We advise you to bring your tobacco on and sell it as soon as you can. Our motto is "Prompt and efficient service and courteous treatment."

GARRARD'S GAME PROTECTION ATTRACTING WIDE ATTENTION.

As an indication that Garrard is sometimes in the lead and to the forefront in matters of wide-spread importance is shown by the following letter lately received by the Lancaster correspondent to the Louisville Courier-Journal: Louisville, Ky., Feb. 12, 1916. My dear Miss Grant:

On Jan. 25th, I noticed a very interesting special sent by you concerning an agreement which has lately been drawn up and signed by more than 40 Garrard County farmers regarding the protection of game upon their lands for a period of three years. Would you be good enough to send me the names of two or three of these farmers who have taken the movement so that I may take the matter up with them and learn more about it as it seems to me a wonderfully fine thing to do for the game of Garrard County? Enclosed please find stamped envelope and I hope you will reply at once so I may learn something about this in time for the March issue of Farm and Family, which you will note is a publication of the Courier Journal.

Yours sincerely,
James Speed, Editor.

Below will be seen the agreement entered into by more than 40 farmers, and many more have sent word they want to sign it. It will undoubtedly mean much to Garrard Co.

This Agreement Witnesseth: That in order to protect the game on our lands for a period of three years we bind ourselves out to hunt thereon, nor permit any body else to do so, and we further agree to prosecute with diligence all persons who violate the game laws of Kentucky or trespass upon our lands for the purpose of hunting. And we further agree to act as Deputy Game Wardens for the purpose of carrying out this agreement. Except each of us have the right to kill rabbits on our farms or permit it to be done by another under our supervision, or the supervision of some responsible and reliable person selected by us.

FERTILIZER FOR THE GARDEN

Most Satisfactory to Supply Liberal Quantities of All Elements Deficient in Soil.

In a vegetable garden where many plants are grown with such varying plant food requirement, it is entirely impracticable to attempt to compound fertilizer formulas suitable for the various groups of vegetables. It is far more satisfactory to supply liberal quantities of all the fertilizing elements deficient in the soil. In this way each plant will be sufficiently supplied with plant food for full development. Says Bulletin 106 of the Georgia station.

Animal manures of almost any kind are good for enriching the garden soil. In fact, it is quite difficult to maintain the fertility of a soil so heavily cropped as a vegetable garden unless there is an available supply of animal manures of some kind. Horse stable manure is the most convenient to apply; and it is very excellent for a garden, provided there is not too much coarse particles of bedding applied just before the garden is to be planted. Winter is a good time to apply manure to the garden soil. The manure should be hauled out and spread over all the garden area that is not occupied with vegetables. Even then the manure may be strewn along between the rows of vegetables and allowed to decompose until the vegetables are taken off and the soil turned for another crop. There is little danger of applying too much stable manure to the garden soil. If the manure is well decomposed, or if applied and plowed in a month or two before planting time, it may be used at the rate of 25 to 30 tons per acre with beneficial effect to the crops grown.

PRESERVE THE FENCE POSTS

Average Farmer Can Secure Profitable Results by Heating Butts in Boiling Cresote.

The question of fence posts is getting to be a serious one. Wooden posts are mounting in price very rapidly and are quite often of poor quality. Iron and cement posts are coming into use but there are objections to them because of cost, weight, difficulty of attaching wire and the crumbling of concrete in alkaline soils.

Railroad and telephone companies, using ties and poles, have the same conditions to contend with. They have reduced expenses a good deal by the use of coal tar creosote preservative, forcing it into the ties and pole butts by hydraulic pressure in closed tanks. Such a plant is not available to the average farmer but he can get much of the same result by heating the butts of posts in boiling creosote for one-half to three or four hours, according to the species of the wood and then letting the posts cool in the liquid.

The heat forces a part of the air out of the wood and as the post cools the air that is left in the wood contracts and the partial vacuum thus formed draws the creosote into the wood for a one-quarter or one-half inch or more. If this cannot be done, it will pay to paint or dip the butt of the post, for even this will afford considerable protection against rotting.

Immense Chestnut Tree.
The largest Spanish chestnut tree in the world grows in a forest on the slopes of Mount Etna. It is said that a hundred soldiers and their horses once found shelter beneath it.

HOPPER FOR POULTRY

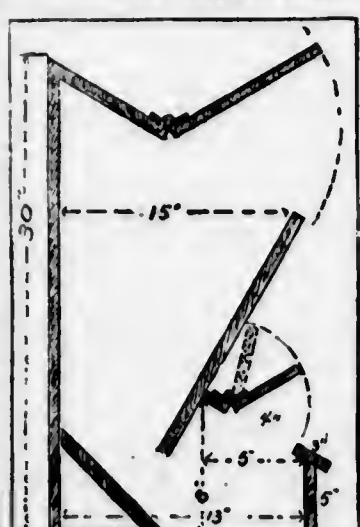

Idea Is Finding Place on Many Farms With Small Flocks.

Reduce the Labor of Care and Feeding and Also Supplies Fowls With Necessary Ingredients of Well-Balanced Ration.

The hopper feeding of poultry of all classes is becoming customary among the large poultrymen and is finding a place on many farms and in small flocks.

The main idea is to reduce the labor of care and feeding and at the same time supply the fowls with the necessary ingredients of a balanced ration. Mixtures of ground grains and feeds are most frequently used in the hopper. The fowls seem not likely to overfeed of such mixtures and when whole grains are fed in litter and sufficient exercise induced in this manner, good results are had both in egg production and body development of young fowls. Growing chicks on free range do splendidly when hopper fed and the time and labor of caring for them is reduced to a minimum.

A dry mash much used is composed of the following: Bran, 100 pounds; ground oats, 100 pounds; cornmeal, 50 pounds; alfalfa meal, 10 pounds. To this should be added 15 or 20 pounds of good beef scrap unless insect life on the range is plentiful. For year around feeding, the hopper method will be found of value if properly managed and will save much labor.

Self-Feeding Hopper.

The cut herewith shows the detailed construction of a dry-feed hopper that is proving wholly satisfactory at the Missouri state poultry experiment station. The dimensions given are for a hopper for mature fowls and can be reduced for young stock.

KEEPING THE SOIL WELL FED

Addition of Phosphorus or Potassium or a Combination of Both May Be Found Necessary.

Good use of manure and some clover and clover sod plowed under in a short rotation may not give the fullest results desired, even though a good deep seedbed is made and the best of the seed is planted. Manure and green clover plowed under may not prove a balanced ration to permit the soil to produce maximum crops. Here soil science should be brought into use to determine what can be used for best results to balance up the manure and clover if the soil seems to fail to supply all the necessary elements.

An addition of phosphorus or potassium, or a combination of both these elements in the form of phosphate and potash fertilizers may be necessary. The heavier soils usually contain a large amount of potassium and hence it is seldom required as a fertilizer. So long as these soils are well supplied with active organic matter this element will become available to meet crop needs. In some cases, however, some potash fertilizer may prove a profitable investment. Marginal soils, as a rule, require potash fertilizers.

KEEP WATCH ON BROOD MARE

Best Care Possible Is Needed During Few Weeks Preceding Foaling—Give Plenty of Water.

By B. A. ALEXANDER, Wisconsin Experiment Station.

Liberal daily exercise, light, steady, careful work and a roomy box stall at night are what the brood mare needs. Feed her sound, whole oats, bran and mixed hay or timothy. It is very risky to feed moldy or otherwise damaged feed.

Brood mares should be kept away from cornfields for there are certain dangers arising from the stalks and other spore diseases likely to be found on corn stalks. Give her plenty of fresh, clean water at all times. The best possible care is needed during the few weeks or months immediately before foaling. Work at this time is good for the mare, but jerking, heavy hauling, wading through deep snow or over marshy grounds and work on slippery roads should be avoided because of the resultant strain on the animal's body.

FIVE SOUND POULTRY RULES

Farmer Can Add Materially to Return by Little Thought—Hant Is Great Enemy of Eggs.

Heat is the great enemy of eggs, both fertile and infertile. Farmers are urged to follow these simple rules, which cost nothing but time and thought and will add dollars to the poultry yard return:

1. Keep the nests clean; provide one nest for every four hens.
2. Gather the eggs twice daily.
3. Keep the eggs in a cool dry room or cellar.
4. Market the eggs at least twice a week.
5. Sell, kill or confine all male birds as soon as the hatching season is over.

Keep Animals Healthy. Protect your animals from disease by keeping the place clean.

Depth of Ignorance.
"How ignorant that woman is," said Mrs. Gansap to her caller. "She and I went to the Zoo the other day, and I thought I would laugh outright when she called the giraffe a camel."

Amazing Grace.
"When Sister Grace Waddles came to the aid of revival," related Aunt Missa Waters, "she lit up and shouted that the devil had her by the feet trying to haul her down into de pit, but, halloboy, a bright angel come had her by de hair o' de head and draggin' her to glory!"—Kansas City Star.

Mouth-Breathing Danger Signal.
Of a child that habitually kept its mouth open people used to say that it had "a foolish look." They let it go at that. Nowadays understanding persons are quick to recognize the fact that the child needs medical and perhaps surgical treatment. The nasal passages, through which it should breathe, are obstructed, perhaps by adenoids.—Philadelphia Record.

Assassins a Violent Tribe.
The Assassins, or Assassins, a band of fanatical Mohammedans, came into Persia and settled there about 1090. They also possessed themselves of a large tract of land in Syria. They trained up the young to assassinate persons designated by their chief. From them came the word assassin. After making way with quite a number of rulers they were run out of Persia and Syria.

Woman's Curiosity.
The worst of women is that they are always wanting to see what will happen if they do certain things. They make a man angry just to see what he looks like when he is angry; and they make men miserable just to see what they ever realize how much gratuitous suffering all this entails upon the man.—From "Concerning Isabel Carnaby," by Mrs. Fowler.

One on the Naturalist.
Theodore Watts, says Charles Rowley in his book, "Fifty Years of Work Without Wages," tells a good story against himself. A nature enthusiast, he was climbing Snowdon and overtook an old gypsy woman. He began to dilate upon the sublimity of the scenery in somewhat gushy phrases. The woman paid no attention to him. Frustrated by her irreverence, he said: "You don't seem to care for this magnificent scenery?" She took the pipe from her mouth and delivered this settler: "I afluss it; I dun't jabber."

Coming Debates.

Radio as a Fertilizer.
One seven-hundredth part of a grain of radium will thoroughly fertilize a ton of soil, and cause grain to grow with great rapidity. Where this experiment has been tried it has been noted that all the leaves become very dark. Radishes and carrots raised in this soil grew to six times their usual weight.

No Iron Cross for Officers.
Washington, too, had his iron crosses. However, they were merely badges, known as badges of military merit. This decoration was established by Washington in 1781 and was conferred upon noncommissioned officers and soldiers for three years' good conduct, or for specially meritorious service. They entitled the wearer to pass and repass all guards and military posts as fully and as any commissioned officer whatever.

Joy in Little Things.
Yes, there is joy in little things. We don't have to wear silk-lined opera capes or eat lunch in a French restaurant to have a good time. No matter how humble our home or narrow our life's path may be, if we are blessed with health there are numberless little joys awaiting us whenever we turn, but we must train our eyes to see them and our hands to grasp them, and finally we must tell others less observant of the treasure box we've found.

To Keep Liquid.
Grape juice, either alone, fruit juice or any kind of liquid of like nature may be kept for any period it laid upon its side or placed bottom up. This is vouchered for by a physician. Thus, if the liquid covers the cork, the moisture will keep the cork expanded and there will be no room for the air to find its way in and ruin it.

No matter how humble our home or narrow our life's path may be, if we are blessed with health there are numberless little joys awaiting us whenever we turn, but we must train our eyes to see them and our hands to grasp them, and finally we must tell others less observant of the treasure box we've found.

One on the Naturalist.
Theodore Watts, says Charles Rowley in his book, "Fifty Years of Work Without Wages," tells a good story against himself. A nature enthusiast, he was climbing Snowdon and overtook an old gypsy woman. He began to dilate upon the sublimity of the scenery in somewhat gushy phrases. The woman paid no attention to him. Frustrated by her irreverence, he said: "You don't seem to care for this magnificent scenery?" She took the pipe from her mouth and delivered this settler: "I afluss it; I dun't jabber."

EAT A SQUARE MEAL AND NOT FEAR INDIGESTION.

There are hundreds of people in Lancaster who were not the least bit surprised when they read in the "Central Record" that R. E. McRoberts is selling Mio-na on a guarantee to refund the money in case it did not relieve. This remarkable dyspepsia remedy will relieve the worst case of indigestion, headache, dizziness, or the general played-out condition that afflicts every one suffering with stomach trouble. Mio-na does not simply relieve, it aims to cure.

R. E. McRoberts can tell you of many well known people to this city who this remedy has restored to health, often they have tried many other methods of treatment with little or no benefit. No other dyspepsia remedy has made so large a percentage of cures as Mio-na. It is so large that R. E. McRoberts stands ready to refund the price to any customer whom it does not help.

The best kind of advertising is the praise of a pleased customer, and there are hundreds in Lancaster today praising Mio-na because it does what it is advertised to do. A few months ago they could eat nothing without wondering what the result would be. Since using Mio-na, they eat what they want and when they want with no fear of suffering.

...A... Misunderstanding

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

Alex Trowbridge, having been graduated from college, advertised for a position as tutor in a private family. He got a reply to call at a house in a suburban place called Glendale and went there at attention to find a handsome house in the center of large grounds. A ring at the bell brought a maid, who ushered him into a drawing room and left him without waiting to tell him who should be summoned. Trowbridge, having written that he would call on that day and hour, supposing he was expected, did not call her back.

He had waited some time when he noticed a movement of a screen before a door leading to a side room. Since there was no apparent reason for its being moved, his curiosity was excited, and he went in. He looked behind it.

A girl of nineteen was there, who had evidently been spying on him. Being detected, she colored.

"I dare say you think hard of me," she said, "but you must admit that under the circumstances, as I would wish to catch a glimpse of you before meeting you."

"Quite so," replied Trowbridge, supposing that she was to be his pupil.

"I dare say this matter is for the best, but it seems very cold blooded," replied the girl.

"Cold blooded?"

"It certainly seems cold blooded to me, though there is no element of romance in a girl meeting for the first time one who is to have so important an influence on her life."

Trowbridge was as much astonished as puzzled. He had heard of girls falling in love with their tutors, but this speaking of romance in a case where the tutor had not yet been engaged seemed preposterous.

"I can readily understand," he said, "the feeling that prompted you to desire to see me before receiving me. It enabled you to turn me down in case you did not approve, or, rather, it would have enabled you to do so had I not floundered into interrupting your survey."

"I saw it rock without my apparent cause."

"How stupid of me!"

"I suppose I am to see your father with reference to the engagement?"

"Certainly. But he is not in this afternoon. Besides, there is no hurry. The object of this visit is entirely preliminary, being to enable us to meet and get acquainted. I am not to be forced in the matter. I am to have full liberty to do as I please, you of course, having the same privilege."

"Oh, for that matter my mind is made up. I am ready to make an engagement at once. I am delighted in having so attractive a pupil."

"In the art of love?" looking up archly.

This was proceeding at so rapid a pace that Trowbridge was almost frightened. Surely there must be something unsuspicious at the bottom of it. What did it mean? He turned the topic of conversation to the course of instruction to be pursued.

"Do you intend to prepare for college?" he asked.

"College? Oh, no; there will be no time to go to college. Father needs capital at once. Of course he has told you all about that."

The puzzled look on Trowbridge's face was noticed by the girl, who added:

"It isn't possible that papa has arranged this meeting without having made the business arrangement with you?"

"I have not seen your father. I have written for a position as tutor and received a letter asking me to call."

Further explanation was interrupted by a young man being shown into the room by the maid. The lady had slipped up to Trowbridge and was sitting very near him. The newly entering guest started, then, pulling him self together, advanced.

"Mr. Waterman," he said, "I have come in accordance with an arrangement with you."

At the name Waterman the girl jumped from the sofa on which she and Trowbridge were sitting as though she had been stung by a wasp.

"Are you Mr. Waterman?" she asked excitedly of the newcomer.

"Certainly I'm Mr. Waterman. As I was saying—"

"And who are you?" she demanded angrily of the other man.

"Mr. Alexander Trowbridge. As I was explaining to you when the gentleman entered, I called to see you about a position as tutor."

"Oh, my goodness gracious!" exclaimed the girl, and without further remark she swept out of the room with the air of an offended queen.

There was no engagement of a tutor, nor was there any discussion of a marriage arrangement between Mr. Waterman and Miss Maud Holberton, ten whereby her father was to secure capital to save him from bankruptcy. He pulled through without Waterman's assistance and eventually Trowbridge effected an engagement with the daughter of far more importance than that of tutor. Nevertheless he was never forgiven for having permitted the girl to become his wife to talk to him, believing him to have called for a matrimonial purpose. Trowbridge does not retaliate by reminding her that she was spying. He does not dare do so. The family peace requires no reference to this whatever.

The strongest recommendation any article may receive is a favorable word from the user. It is the recommendation of those who have used it that makes Chamberlain's Cough Remedy so popular. CARING FOR THE RAM

Should Be Given Every Opportunity to Keep Strong and Healthy Before Breeding Season Begins—Give Abundance of Water.

Usually, the ram which heads the average farm flock receives very little care from the time he is turned out to pasture in the spring until the advent of the breeding season in the fall. Then, about the only thing which is done is to turn him in with the ewes and allow mating to occur at random. Perhaps this is the sort of care and management which results in many barren ewes and weak lambs.

The mating season is naturally one of severe strain on the ram and he should be given every possible opportunity to keep strong and healthy. This means that he ought to have the proper kind of care, even before the breeding season begins. Of course, if the pasture is plentiful, there is not any need of feeding anything else during the early part of the grazing season. However, as the hot weather comes and the grass becomes less abundant and less succulent, it may be advisable to feed other roughage or perhaps a little grain.

Especially during the month just preceding the mating season should the ram get the best of feed and care, for experience has shown that the ram which is gaining in condition at the opening of the breeding season will get more and stronger lambs than the ram which is in poor flesh. Oats is one of the best grains for use at this time.

In addition to providing plenty of pasture, and a small amount of grain during the late summer, the ram should have an abundance of water. The usual practice in pasturing the ram during the summer months is to place him in a small paddock or orchard, where there is no natural water supply. Under such conditions it is necessary to supply water by artificial means. And when the water is supplied a little salt may be given once each week.

USES FOR MANURE SPREADER

Time and Labor Saved by Distributing Fertilizer—Vehicles Can Be Used as a Common Wagon.

Using the manure spreader for distributing fertilizer is another of those cases of saving time and labor over the old method of hand scattering. A spreader can be as quickly and easily loaded on a common wagon while the time required to unload is about one-fourth that of unloading by hand. Besides, the driver has a chance to rest while unloading the spreader, consequently he can load the spreader again quicker and easier than where he tires himself in unloading by hand. This saving in time and labor enables one to do from two to three times more hauling, which of course reduces the cost accordingly.

But the greatest profit in connection with the work of the spreader is that of economy in the use of the manure. When distributed by the spreader it will cover two or three times as much land as when scattered by hand, for all lumps and hard pieces will be torn into fine particles and distributed evenly over the ground.

PROPER FEED FOR THE COLT

Fresh Pasture Grass is Excellent—Supplement With Oil Meal, Bran, Corn, Oats and Alfalfa.

Some farmers believe that a colt will make up as a horse the growth that it does not make as a colt. As a matter of fact a colt or any other young animal that is not kept growing is very likely never to become as large and strong as it would have been had it thrived while young. The colt should receive the proper kind of feed and be fed liberally. The feed should be nutritious and palatable. Among the best colt feeds is fresh pasture grass. This should be supplemented with oil meal, corn, oats and alfalfa or clover hay.

Where it is possible to do so the colts should be kept in the stable away from flies during the day, given all the alfalfa or clover hay they will eat and one pound of the following grain mixture to each 100 pounds of colt: Six pounds of oats or corn, three pounds of bran and one pound of oil meal.—Ohio Bulletin.

TREATING HOGS WITH SERUM

Produces Immunity of Sufficient Duration to Allow Ample Time for Cleaning Up the Yards.

(By J. R. GINGERY, Missouri Experiment Station.)

The veterinary department of the Missouri agricultural experiment station has been recommending and using the serum alone treatment. The question is often heard, "Why the serum alone treatment?" The serum alone treatment properly administered has for its object the control and eventually the absolute eradication of hog cholera. It makes it possible in a large measure to do away with vaccination with its attending cost and trouble. The serum alone treatment is a safe method to use and is simple. It can be handled with good results by the careful inexperienced man. There are none of the bad after results such as sometimes follow other treatments.

Serum alone can neither start new outbreaks of cholera nor bring the infection on your noninfected farm. When administered under proper conditions it produces an immunity of sufficient duration to allow ample time for cleaning up and disinfecting the yards and in this way destroying the infection before the hogs outgrow the immunity. Under ordinary conditions this is of far greater importance than simply protecting hogs from the cholera for a varying period of time and not making any attempt to avoid harboring the germs. The germs, whether in the litter about the pens or in the virus of the double treatment, will cause the disease to develop. If cholera is to be controlled it is necessary to destroy the germs. The use of the serum alone is to protect the hogs until the germs can be destroyed by cleaning up, burning and disinfecting.

PROTECT STOCK FROM FLIES

Fine Spray of Kerosene Oil Is Effective in Keeping Insects Off Animals—Other Remedies.

Sometimes a fine spray of pure kerosene is very effective in knocking off flies. This spray should not be heavy enough to penetrate the hair, or it will blister the skin. Another spray is made by the use of ordinary kerosene oil or creosote two parts, mineral oil four parts, water ten parts. This is usually put on with a brush or sponge.

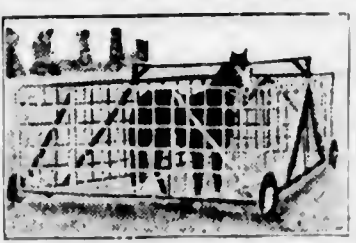

Of the mixtures classed as "repellents," the following is supposed to be very good: One gallon fish or whale oil; one pint coal oil; two ounces crude carbolic acid. A little melted resin is supposed to make these mixtures stick to the hair a little better. Another remedy suggested is ten parts lard or olive grease to one part of pine tar. Such mixtures are usually disagreeable to apply, and the bad odor is generally a greater nuisance than the presence of the flies.

The principal advantage of light sprays is that they drive the flies away during milking time. These have to be applied every day and do not keep the flies off very long. The repellent mixtures are usually applied twice a week, and will keep flies off from two to four days.

PASTURE FENCE ON WHEELS

Interesting Solution Offered by Illinois Farmer to Problem of Caring for Spirited Horse.

A portable pasture fence, made out of the framework of set pieces of fireworks, is the interesting solution offered by an Illinois farmer to the problem of caring for a spirited horse which runs itself out in a large meadow.

Excellent for Nervous Horse.

The little pasture is 16 by 20 feet and the fence is mounted on wheels. One man can move it easily. The horse seems quite contented, and when one piece is grazed sufficiently, the fence is moved to a fresh piece.—Popular Mechanics.

BALANCED RATION FOR EGGS

Satisfactory Feed Is Made of Corn, Wheat, Oats, Alfalfa, Beef Scraps and Linseed Meal.

The following ration is fairly well balanced for egg production: One hundred and fifty pounds each of cracked corn and cracked wheat, 20 pounds each of wheat bran, middlings, cornmeal, ground oats and gluten meal, 30 pounds beef scraps, five pounds each of alfalfa meal and old process linseed oil meal.

For hens having free range of the farm, a very simple ration is made of equal parts cracked corn and cracked wheat, and a dish of beef scraps to which they can help themselves.

Good Land Wanted.

Get after the old briars and weeds along the line fence. Why not use the old mow that has been superseded by a new one. It would be interesting to know just what proportion of good land in this country is allowed to go to waste along line fences.

Speaking of the Weather

February and March bring weather conditions very trying to most people.

Colds, coughs, sore throat, tonsillitis, catarrh, bronchitis, pneumonia, are all prevalent.

These are all catarrhal conditions. All dependent upon the same cause, climatic changes. Sloppy weather underfoot. High winds, chilling blasts, changing from day to day. Thermometer dancing a jig. Barometer following suit.

All of the acute catarrhal conditions above referred to, call for

PE-RU-NA

They call loudly, too. If Peruna is neglected these catarrhal conditions are liable to become chronic. One bottle of Peruna used at the right time will save months, even years, of suffering and sickness.

HOLDING ON TO CLAY.

Kentucky has decided to present as her contributions to the Hall of Fideous Statuary at Washington "terracotta" or marble statues of John C. Breckinridge and Simon Bolivar Buckner.

Some members of the Kentucky Legislature and some newspapers there had the impudence to suggest Henry Clay; but as he was from Hancock county, Virginia, and did not leave this State until he was 24 years old and had studied law here in Richmond, conscience asserted itself. Virginia long ago asserted her claim to Mr. Clay by placing a marble statue of him in the Capitol Square. Barring the fact that now and then some mischievous and accurate boy succeeds in knocking off one of the fingers with a rock, it is an excellent preservation and Kentucky need not fear that her great grandson will lack commemoration.

GOOD HAY RACK FOR LOADER

Device Intended to Do Away With Much Labor Necessary to Keep From Stopping the Team.

Those farm youths who have toiled beneath a 95-degree sun in an attempt to load ahead of a loader that was sweeping up heavy windrows, will see that the head of the farm looks into this invention that is designed to do away with the killing pace they have had to put up to keep from stopping the team and resting while they distributed the piles of hay that rolled up. The man on the hay rack can tell the driver to go ahead and calmly

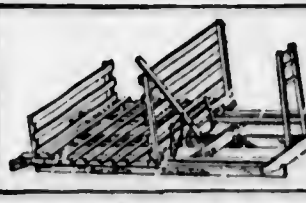

EXERCISE FOR LITTLE PIGS

Give Them an Armful of Corn Husks or Leaves to Root In—Have Separate Trough for Feeding.

Sometimes little pigs, when penned up too closely, avoid signs of getting too fat. By giving them a little more room in which to run they will begin taking enough exercise to drive away this fatty puffiness. If given an armload of corn husks or leaves they will root around in these and get quite a good deal of exercise. It is all right for the pigs to have that chubby look that shows they are well nourished, but they can get too puffy and fat.

As to the feeding, that will begin to take care of itself as soon as the little fellows begin trying to eat with the new. When they get that big they should be fed some ground oats and corn. Better use a screen in preparation taken out. Any sort of a screen that will take out the hulls after grinding will do for this.

It is better to have a separate trough and feeding place for the pigs than it is to let them run chances of being trampled underfoot or crushed when fed along with the brood sows. If feeding in a separate pen in a smaller trough their rations will not be stolen by the older hogs. The pen can be arranged near the regular feeding place and furnished with an opening big enough to let the pigs come in and small enough to keep the full grown and half grown animals outside.

EXPLAINS INCREASE

IN GASOLINE PRICE.

The greatly increased price of gasoline, Secretary Lane reported to the Senate is caused by shortage of supply and an increase in consumption.

He recommended that the situation be relieved by the use of heavier diluents in internal combustion engines.

Secretary Lane's report asserts that "authorities agree that the automobile and other internal combustion engines are primarily responsible for the increased consumption of gasoline," and adds that a kerosene carburetor "would at once go a long way toward relieving the present shortage."

The recent rapid increase in the price of gasoline, the report says, has been accompanied by a rapid rise in the market condition of oil property shares. It refers to a 50 per cent dividend declared by the Standard Oil Company of California January 22, 1916, and a 100 per cent dividend by the Imperial Oil Company, Limited, of Canada.

The report says the increase in consumption of gasoline in the United States in 1915 was 25 per cent over 1914, and estimates that there will be a corresponding increase in 1916.

USELESS HORNS ON CATTLE

Whole Process of Handling Cattle Easily and Successfully is Well Worth Adopting.

On the smaller class of farms where only a few, or perhaps several, calves are raised annually, it is an easy matter to dehorn them, or rather prevent any horns to develop. One farmer uses caustic potash. One light application when a calf is ten days to two weeks old, prevents all horn development, and a beautiful head results. In this advanced age no cattle should possess horns. They are useless as they are dangerous. Another thing is to break all the cattle to lead and stand tied. This is easy especially if attended to when the calves are young.

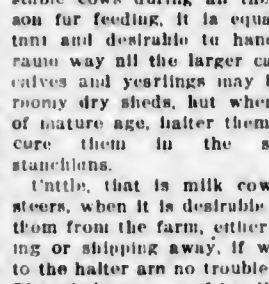

Still another thing is to arrange to stable, through all bad, cold weather, for feeding. This is comfort for the cattle and economical of feeding material. Reason teaches one that if it is so economical and practical to stable cows during all the cold seasons for feeding, it is equally important and desirable to handle in the same way all the larger cattle. The calves and yearlings may be allowed roomy dry sheds, but when they get of mature age, halter them up or secure them in the stable by stanchions.

Little that is milk cows and fat steers, when it is desirable to remove them from the farm, either for breeding or shipping away, if well broken to the halter are no trouble to handle. The whole process of handling all the cattle easily and successfully as recommended, is well worth trying and adopting.

MAKING A DEHORNING CHUTE

hind him in cleats on one side of the chute. Force him into the proper position and then fasten it by dropping a pin into the nearest hole in the specially arranged piece on the other side. Chute is six feet long, six feet high and three feet wide. Dimensions should correspond as nearly as possible to the average animal, because the less freedom of movement the better. Floor is narrowed to 12 inches, with tight, slanting sides up to a height of three feet. Each jaw of trap is separated by a lever, and may be secured at any place by iron pins in holes bored in the upper front crosspiece of the frame. This arrangement practically does away with all body struggle. Tie the head down.—Western Farmer.

MAIN CAUSE OF BEE LOSSES

Weakening of Colonies During Winter Season Due to Lack of Protection From Severe Weather.

Uncle Sam's bee sharps, as a result of experiments, are now contending that there need not be the common losses and weakening of bee colonies during the winter season. Lack of sufficient insulation to protect the bees from prolonged cold and sudden changes of temperature is the main cause of bee losses.

Many experiments conducted by the experts show that sufficient insulation of the hives is hardly ever supplied, and that too much protection of this kind is almost impossible, providing ventilation is furnished so that the bees will always be insured fresh air.

The kind of insulating material is unimportant—chaff, shavings, dry leaves, paper, broken cork, and sawdust each answer the purpose well. The insulation layer should be made from six to twelve inches thick, according to the severity of the climate.

One insulation plan that has worked well in the latitude of the middle states is the following: Three inches of chaff, dry leaves, or the like was placed beneath the hives, eight inches on the sides and ends, and twelve inches on top. An opening eight inches wide and three-eighths inches high was constructed like a tunnel through the packing to the entrance. This was found to furnish abundant and proper ventilation.

Protection from the chilling effects of strong, cold wind was found to be an important safeguard even when the hives were well insulated.

Proper protection by means of generous insulation of the hives has shown that the winter losses of bees need not exceed one per cent when the bees are free from any contagious disease.

TREATMENT FOR ACID SOILS
Numerous Quarries Throughout Country Afford Plentiful Supply of Ground Limestone.

Farmers who are troubled with acid soils will do well to get a copy of bulletin 400 published by the New York experiment station at Geneva. While the material in this publication refers especially to land in New York, much of it is applicable to farms in other parts of the country.

Because of the numerous quarries throughout the country, ground limestone can be obtained at a reasonable price and should be used in preference to quicklime which often injures the land because of its caustic properties.

The following quotations show the value of ground limestone compared to other farms:

"Speaking generally, a ton of ground limestone, 1,500 pounds of hydrated lime, or 1,300 pounds of burned lime contain the same amount of self sweetening chemicals."

"Air-slaked lime, when the process is fully complete, is the same in chemical composition as ground limestone, as it has taken from the soil the carbon dioxide driven from the limestone by burning, and has again become lime carbonate. It is of equal value with ground limestone from the same quarry, and of no greater value unless fineness be financially worth while."

"Marl is also lime carbonate and equal to ground limestone in value if of similar purity."
